Wedding Bells.

An interesting home wedding took place at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Logan, Burnt Lake, on Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 21st, when Miss Carrie May, eldest daughter in the family, was united in marriage to Mr. Richard Edward Birney of Calgary. The bride and her younger sister, who acted as bridesmaid, carried beautiful bouquets of roses. Mr. Albert E. Deitz, of Strathcona, was groomsman. The Rev. W. G. Brown of Red Deer tied the nuptial knot, and a number of friends from Red Deer were present to extend their congratulations and good wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Birney, whose new home will be in Calgary.

A wedding of more than usual interest to the citizens of Red Deer was that of Miss Ida Taylor to Mr. John Langhorne Irwin, cashier of the Dominion Express Co., Edmonton, which took place on Saturday afternoon, Oct. 23rd, in the Presbyterian church. The young people had decorated the church for the occasion and under the arch made of evergreens the bridal pair stood during the ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. W. G. Brown. The wedding march was played by Mrs. Brown. Many of the friends of both bride and groom were present. Both Mr. Irwin and Miss Taylor have been deservedly popular in the community because of their interest in the work of the church and of all that contributed to the higher life of the young people. The happy couple left for their new home in Edmonton by the evening train, carrying with them showers of good wishes, as well as showers of certain other things that usually go with bridal parties.

Poplar Ridge.

Miss Maud Legge, of Blackfalds, and sister Miss L. E. Legge, of Innisfail, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Fisher for Thanksgiving.

Mr. Fred Wilson, of Montana, is visiting friends and relatives in the neighborhood.

The Harvest Thanksgiving concert, given by the Sunday School last Sunday afternoon, was largely attended and very well rendered by the pupils. F. Mott took the service, in the absence of Mr. Barner, most acceptably.

The Thanksgiving box social at Poplar Ridge school house, Monday evening, was a great success. The chair was occupied by Auctioneer F. Mott, and the following nice program was rendered:

Opening prayer; gramaphone selection; song 'Some One' Miss Amy Rowell; recitation 'The Girl in Pink' Miss Pearl Atkins; song 'Johnny Sands' Miss Marjorie Mott; recitation 'Dolly's Thanksgiving' Ethel Brownrigg; duet, Mr. and Mrs. F. Fisher; song 'Smarty' Miss Amy Rowell; duet the Misses Archibald; song 'Three Cheers for the Flag' F. Fisher; recitation "Ask mamma' Mrs. F. Fisher; recitation 'The Soldier's Dream' C. Hives; reading 'The Bishop and Caterpillar' F Mott; song 'Coming Through the Rye' Miss M. Mott; song 'Papa's Letter' Margaret Rodgers; song, Miss Bone; gramaphone selections.

The sale of boxes by Auctioneer Mott created lots of fun, especially the sale of a pig. The proceedings terminated with the National Anthem.

A pair of gloves, two cups and two small fancy saucers were left at the school and they can be had at Mrs. Strong's.

Farmers' Co-operative Association.

The Red Deer Co-operative Association in connection with the U.F.A. was organized at a meeting on Wednesday afternoon the constitution and bylaws being submitted and adopted. Its purpose is to provide a means of co-operative selling of farm stock and products. Messrs. Bower, E. Carswell, R. E. Fiske, H. A. Crocker, T. B. Millar, Capt. Keast, J. Gummow, J. Spiers and C. A. J. Sharman were chosen directors. The election of a secretary, who is to be the main executive officer of the association, was left over. Jas. Bower was elected Chairman of the Board.

Eckville.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Snell have returned to Red Deer.

Among recent visitors were M. Archambault; Dr. Tanche, C. Reid, Mr. and Mrs. B. Krause, etc.

The cheese factory is closed for the winter. It is hoped that there will be a still further increase in the number of patrons next summer.

Some people don't seem satisfied with the way the school is being run. Don't kick at the trustees or secretary. Have a go at your neighbor or perhaps yourself; the school tax may not have been paid up.

The Bernard Bros. and Chas. Snell attended the sale of school lands in Lacombe and purchased between them a quarter of the school section south of here. M. Stopson secured another quarter in the same section, and R. B. Wellivee of Red Deer, got the remaining half.

Rev. C. Greaves' Services.

The Rev. C. Greaves starts a monthly service in the district near the river by McKenzie's crossing. This makes his sixth centre, the other places of services being as follows:

Pine Lake, 2nd and 4th Sunday in the month at 3 p.m.; Hillsdown, 3rd Sunday in the month at 11.30 a.m.; Arthurvale, 4th Sunday in the month at 11 a.m.; Edwell, 2nd Sunday in the month at 7 p.m.; Huxley, 1st Sunday in the month at 11 a.m.; McKenzie's Crossing, 1st Sunday in the month at 3.30 p.m.

This new arrangement will place many more people within reach of church services, bringing those within 5 or 6 miles who have been 10 to 15 miles distant.

MARRIED.

In St. Luke's church, on Monday, Thanksgiving Day, by the Rev. C. Greaves of Pine Lake, Frank Chevoux to Mabel Fiske, eldest daughter of R. E. Fiske of Hillsdown.

Harvest Services at Springvale and Willowdale.

The Harvest Thanksgiving services in connection with the Methodist cause at Springvale and at Willowdale, were held on Sunday, Oct. 24th, and were enjoyed by large congregations. The Springvale church was very tastefully decorated for the occasion, while emblems of the good harvest were also in evidence at the Willowdale school house. Rev. J. H. Johnston, MA.,B.D., of Airdrie, preached at all three services, besides addressing the children. His sermons were listened to with wrapt attention and much enthusiasm, while the singing by a choir of young ladies, assisted by Mrs. Allen, was thoroughly enjoyed.

The lecture on Thanksgiving night by the Rev. Thos. Powell, of Lacombe, was certainly an excellent one, and the large crowd that had gathered were well pleased, both with the sparkling humor of the address and with its practical advice. Friends from Red Deer assisted the choir in providing splendid vocal music. The proceeds of the services and lecture were over $335.00, including old subscriptions to be paid now.

Leslieville.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen McLeod have returned from Oregon, where they have been spending a couple of months.

The Presbyterian Mission Board have stationed a student on this field for the winter months, Mr. Warwick. He takes up Mr. Irwin's work.

Thanksgiving services were held at Bethel Union Church last Sabbath, Oct. 24th, by Mr. Warwick. Special singing was given by the choir.

Mr. and Mrs. John Reid and Miss Cameron came out to their homestead a few days ago. We welcome the new-comers to our district.

Mrs. George Thompson has been visiting in Red Deer with her sister Mrs. Martin.

A business meeting was held in the church a week ago Friday evening to elect new officers in the place of Mr. Bureau and Mrs. J. McNeil, resigned. Mr. Godkin was elected in Mr. Bureau's place and Mr. Reilly was elected President of the Board in Mrs. McNeil's place. A new entertainment committee was appointed, Miss Mattie Reilly, I. Frodeen, Miss Godkin, Miss A. Patterson and Ralph Patterson being those elected. After the meeting a short programme was given, which was greatly appreciated by all present.

The store is progressing favorably under the ownership of Campbell & McKinnon. They certainly make things hum.

A 'bee' will be held at the church on Nov. 15th to erect a shed. All those who have promised to bring poles, posts, etc., are requested to please have them on the grounds before that date.

S. Godkin's new house is almost completed, and he intends moving the family in soon.

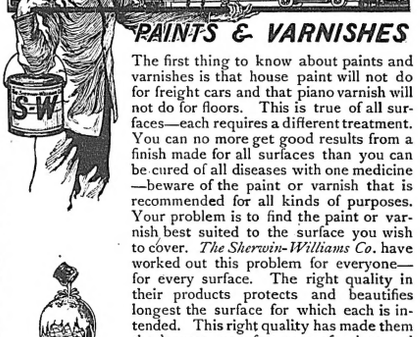
SHERWIN-WILLIAMS



PAINTS & VARNISHES

The first thing to know about paints and varnishes is that house paint will not do for freight cars and that piano varnish will not do for floors. This is true of all surfaces—each requires a different treatment. You can no more get good results from a finish made for all surfaces than you can be cured of all diseases with one medicine—beware of the paint or varnish that is recommended for all kinds of purposes. Your problem is to find the paint or varnish best suited to the surface you wish to cover. The Sherwin-Williams Co. have worked out this problem for everyone—for every surface. The right quality in their products protects and beautifies longest the surface for which each is intended. This right quality has made them the largest manufacturers of paints and varnishes in the world.

A SECOND LIFE

"If I only had another chance"!

How often are these despairing words uttered when a man feels his strength ebbing, his vital forces depressed, his health undermined—often as the result of his own errors or follies—and he realizes the infinite possibilities which might lie in his grasp, could he indeed receive, in Shakespeare's phrase, "a second life."

Happily for the world, this other chance, this "second life" is to be had for the asking by means of that which has been aptly described by a famous physician as "the last word science has spoken" on the subject of such remedial agents, and to which, by virtue of its health-giving properties, the name of Vital—meaning life "health-producer"—has been given.

So potent is its force that it will not only restore the health and vigour which have been lost, but, if persevered in, will in addition impart the highest measure of nervous and physical vigour of which the individual is capable; for there is a maximum capacity of health for everyone, though he may not hitherto have had the fact impressed upon him. Doctors endorse this and daily prescribe Vital in increasing quantities. The constituents which give this power are known to every physician, and one has testified to the supreme merits of Vital as after wasting illness and as a restorer of health, not only in nervous diseases (with their innumerable symptoms of discomfort and distress, including loss of memory, insomnia, irresolution, weakness of the will, &c.), but also in anæmia, digestive disturbances and consumption.

SODAS

THINK OF "FRESHNESS AND FOLEY'S" TOGETHER WHEN YOU BUY SODAS

The most frequent disappointment in buying sodas is in finding them flat in taste and old in appearance. You never find that in Foley's Sodas.

We make Foley's Sodas the day they are shipped. No shipping from piled-up old stock—all fresh—made the day they go out.

We ship only in moisture-proof, dust-proof, air-proof cartons. Foley's sodas reach your home in exactly the same perfect, fresh, sweet, palatable condition in which they leave the factory.

Foleys are well-flavored, well-made and properly packed fresh sodas.

The New Ministers.

(Calgary Albertan.)

The Alberta Government is strengthened by the addition to it of Duncan Marshall, W. A. Buchanan and Mr. Lessard. The change was made necessary by the resignation of Hon. W. T. Finlay, and the needs of increasing the cabinet.

Hon. W. T. Finlay has been a good minister, and everyone will regret that ill health forced him to retire. Whatever criticism may have been made of him, no person ever questioned his ability as a minister or his wisdom in the administration of his department. He leaves office with the work under his charge in a very excellent condition, for the department of agriculture in Alberta is quite as well organized and quite as efficient as most of the departments in provinces much older than Alberta.

Mr. Finlay's successor is Mr. Duncan Marshall, member for Olds, proprietor of the Olds Gazette, and owner of a large farm in the Olds district. He needs no introduction to the people of Alberta. He is known throughout the province. He is one of the most forceful public speakers in Alberta, an experienced agriculturist and a strong man in every respect.

Mr. W. A. Buchanan, the member for Lethbridge, is a well known newspaper young man in the province of Alberta. He has been very successful in his profession and has organized, in Southern Alberta, one of the best newspapers in the western provinces. He has excellent business ability, tact, and a strong personality. It is safe to say that when he becomes well known throughout the province, he will be one of the strong ministers in Alberta.

Mr. Lessard, the minister without portfolio, is not so well known throughout the province, but all reports of him are of the very best. The premier has been wise in his choice of ministers, and thus organized, will proceed for the next few years without interruption.

Is Charged With Shooting Companion.

Camrose, Oct. 18.—The man who was arrested yesterday in connection with last Saturday night's shooting affair had his preliminary hearing today before magistrates Code and Fleming. He gave his name as Demers and hails from Edmonton. He was remanded until Friday. Bail was fixed at $2,000. Subject to the attorney general's approval.

The two girls who were arrested give their names as Rosie Gilbert and May Gilbert; they will have their hearing to-morrow.

John Thompson, the victim of the shooting, is resting easily at the hospital, and his wounds are not considered serious unless complications arise.

Big Convention to Decide on a Policy.

R. L. BORDEN SAYS THAT PARTY ORGANIZATION WILL ALSO BE IMPROVED---CONSERVATIVE NAVAL PROGRAM.

Halifal, N. S., Oct. 14.—It was a large and representative audience which greeted R. L. Borden in Mason's hall this evening. It was Mr. Borden's first political address since his return from Europe, and was listened to with keen interest. It was also first visit to his constituency since the last session, and the leader was given a royal welcome and greeted with round upon round of applause during his address.

CONVENTION NEXT YEAR.

The feature of the address was the announcement that plans were in the making for a Liberal-Conservative convention. Two years ago, on his own initiative, he had, after a consultation with many friends throughout Canada, made known his "Halifax platform." Public opinion, not only of the party, but of the country, had ratified that policy to such an extent that the present government had made the pretence at least of adopting many of its provisions, either in whole or in part, for instance, in regard to civil service reform, the inauguration of a system of rural mail delivery, the reorganization of the railway commissions, the control and management of the government railways by an independent comission and the reformation of the electoral laws.

The calling of a convention had been under consideration for nearly four years, but had been delayed because of the extreme length of the sessions and the importance of conducting active and strenuous campaigns in 1907 and 1908.

"But," said Mr. Borden, "the time has now come when this important step should be no longer delayed, and I am glad to announce that during the year 1910 we expect to hold a great convention of the Liberal-Conservative party in Canada, thoroughly representative, not only of every provice, but of every imporant district within each province.

"Great questions will come before that convention for consideration and determination. These will include not only great questions of policy, but matters touching the thoroughly effective organization of the party; and it is not too much to say that the result of the next general elections—which may be held even earlier than we now expect—will depend upon the enthusiasm and vigor with which the Conservatives of Canada unite in making that convention the splendid success I believe it will be."

Penhold.

The men of Stewart and Douglas' threshing machine spent quite an exciting time while threshing at Inglis', watching C. G. Scott and H. Hinkerman fight. They had two rounds, Hinkerman winning both times. Mr. Hinkerman won the name of being the best prize fighter in the district.

Mrs. Thomas Field left for Claresholm recently, where she will spend some time visiting her daughter Mrs. W. C. Miller.

A few of the Penhold people attended the dance in Innisfail after the fair and had a very enjoyable time.

THANKS TO THE HOSPITAL.

To the Editor of the News.

Dear Sir:—

Allow me through the columns of the News to express my gratitude to the nurses at the Memorial Hospital, and all in connection with this excellent institution for their kindness to me. I dreaded going to the hospital, but never shall again if I find it necessary to do so, as the treatment received there could not be better. I heartily recommend the Memorial Hospital at Red Deer, and sincerely thank those in charge, as well as the nurses, for what they all did for me doing my stay there. God bless this institution.

Yours respectfully,

PAINLESS BLESSINGS

PASTOR RUSSELL CONTINUES PREVIOUS TOPIC.

Text: "The Blessing of the Lord It Maketh Rich; and He Addeth No Sorrow Therewith (Proverbs x, 22) —How Will Earthly Rights Be Applied?—Merit of Sacrifice Will Be Used Again In All the World.

Sunday, Oct. 10.—Pastor Russell, of Brooklyn Tabernacle, preached to-day from the text, "The blessing of the Lord, It maketh rich, and He addeth no sorrow therewith." He said:

We continue to-day our topic of last Sunday. Our hope is that not only those of you who hear my voice, but also the seven millions of readers to whom this sermon will go in print in the columns of more than four hundred newspapers may have with mind what we had to say on this text a week ago. Briefly we showed that the world has not yet received the blessing of the Lord which maketh rich—that, on the contrary, ever since the disobedience of our first parents our race has labored under the Divine sentence or "curse" of death, and that our entire condition (mental, moral and physical) are upon us as convicts. We pointed out that the Lord has declared that he will yet grant in his blessing to our race, releasing all from the curse and supplying the blessing of the Lord that maketh rich. We pointed out the foreshadowings of this in specialty in the promise or covenant made to Abraham, and confirmed to the nation of Israel through Isaac and Jacob—"In thee and in thy seed shall all the families of the earth be blessed."

We showed the failure of the Law Covenant to give these blessings and that Jesus, the seed of God, holy, harmless and undefiled, separate from sinners, and he alone, was able to keep the Law and prove himself worthy of eternal life; and all the blessings lost by Adam—not heavenly but earthly blessings — the same that Adam lost. We saw next that those earthly rights and blessings won by our Lord by the keeping of the Law, he, with the Father's consent and arrangement, sacrificed, laid down in death, and that his reward for so doing was a resurrection to a spirit or heavenly plane of being, far above that of angels. We saw a glorious King who had those earthly rights in his possession as an asset or thing of value to give to others.

We want now to continue this investigation and to see in the light of God's Word what is to be done with those earthly rights which Jesus gained by virtue of his obedience to the Law, and which he sacrificed. How will they be applied? We might reasonably have supposed (since God's promise to Israel was that the world should be blessed through it) that as soon as our Lord Jesus had ascended up on high he would give to the nation of Israel all those earthly rights and honors which he had secured by obedience and death. We might have expected accordingly that, forthwith, the nation of Israel would have begun to realize the forgiveness of their sins and would have been thus turned to the Lord; and that, under his blessing, their work with all the nations since would have progressed. As it is written, "In thy seed shall all the families of the earth be blessed." Admitting that the Lord Jesus was the spiritual seed of Abraham we would have expected that upon his glorification the earthly kingdom would have begun to be blessed and to be used for the blessing of others. But nothing of this kind occurred. Disaster came upon the Jewish nation, and blindness. Their nation was destroyed and for nearly nineteen centuries they have been not only blind but outcast, under the disfavor of the Almighty. Did God forget his promise made to Israel, or did he change his purpose, or what is the explanation of the course he did pursue?

What God has been doing since Christ died for the world's sins the Scriptures term the "mystery of God." It has been a mystery to the Jews and a mystery to the world in general, and the Lord has intended it to be. No one can understand the matter nor appreciate it, except he be in the right condition of heart and begotten of the holy Spirit. To such the Lord says, "To you it is given to know the mystery of the Kingdom of heaven, but to all outsiders these things are spoken in parables and in dark sayings." Some who cannot perceive in the full appreciative sense what we shall show, may nevertheless be able to appreciate the matter to a limited degree.

The mystery is this: God intends to have a larger Messiah than the Jews had understood. Not only so, but he will be on a higher plane than they had supposed and accomplish a far greater blessing than they had supposed. God's purpose is to have a multitudinous Messiah and to select the members thereof from many nations. As compared with the world these will be a "little flock." As the Master said, "Fear not, little flock, it is your Father's good pleasure to give you the Kingdom." Each member of this little flock company must develop the same characteristics which were exemplified in their Redeemer, Jesus. They must have his spirit or disposition. Like him they must lay down their lives in the service of righteousness, Truth and the brethren. They will become joint-sacrificers with him.

Here the question arises, If no Jew but Jesus could keep the Divine Law perfectly, and if he could keep it only because he was not a member of Adam's race directly, and if only by keeping the Divine Law perfectly Jesus could be accounted worthy to be a sacrificer and be received to heavenly glory, how could any of the fallen race be acceptable? We read that "he was holy, harmless and undefiled, separate from sinners." Of him again we read that, in order to be thus holy, he required a specially miraculous birth. These things being true, how would it be possible for even a "little flock" to be found who would be acceptable to God as joint-sacrificers with Jesus? How would even a little flock be found who would be of the same spirit as Jesus, a copy of him in character?

The Scriptural answer is that some could indeed be found possessed of the character likeness of Jesus in the sense that they would desire to do perfectly, but none could be found able to do perfectly, because all are sharers in inherited sin. This is a part of the "mystery" which gradually unfolds to those who have the hearing ear and the understanding heart and the eye of faith. The Lord's explanation of the matter is this: when Jesus had sacrificed his earthly rights and had been received to spirit nature, and had the earthly rights at his command to give away, "he ascended up on high there to appear in the presence of God for us." He appeared for, on behalf of, all who believe in him and accept forgiveness of sins and make a consecration of their all to God's service. But Jesus did not accept as disciples those who merely believed and were justified by faith. He attached another condition, namely, that they must sacrifice all their earthly rights and privileges as he did; otherwise they could not be his disciples. Unless they walked in his footsteps of self-sacrifice they could not be counted in as his followers, members of his Body, sharers of his coming glory and work. His words were, "If any man would be my disciple let him take up his cross and follow me, and where I am there shall my disciple be." "Except a man forsake all that he hath he cannot be my disciple." "Unless a man love his father, mother, children and all else he cannot be my disciple." "He that loseth his life for my sake shall find it."

In other words the Lord's proposition to the Church is that all the earthly rights of Adam (lost through disobedience and redeemed by our Lord at Calvary, and now at his disposal) are imputed to those who, during this Gospel Age, turn from sin, accept Christ as their Redeemer, and thereby by consecration sacrifice all earthly rights. In a word our Lord Jesus has a right to give the earthly rights, the earthly life and honor, to any one person or to any number of persons of Adam's race as something to sacrifice. When they do mentally sacrifice earthly rights they receive the begetting of the holy Spirit to the heavenly nature. But that heavenly nature itself they will not receive until they shall have finished the sacrifice appointed for them. Jesus is keeping the Law had a right to earthly perfection and sacrificed it, so those keeping the Law in the spirit of their minds and accepting the merit of Christ as justifying them to restitution right and glory sacrifice these use them in God's service that they may attain to the divine nature and glory. The merit at the end of the Gospel Age will be the same merit of Jesus, and will be at his disposal because, although passed through the Church, it will not have been kept by any member of the Church and will therefore, be at our Lord's disposal at the close of the Age, the dawning of the Millennial Day.

What will be done with the merit of Christ's sacrifice at the end of the Gospel Age when it shall have passed through the Church? We answer that it will be used again. It will be given to the Jews and through them to the whole world. It is the blood or merit which will seal the New Covenant promised to Israel long ago, but not fulfilled. It is one thing to promise a Covenant; another thing to draw up the terms of the Covenant; a third thing to sign and seal the Covenant. The New Covenant has not yet been sealed. The blood that will seal it is now being used in the interest of the elect spiritual Israel, that the little flock may have something to sacrifice, and thereby be granted a share with Christ in his spirit, nature and glory. This is the cup referred to by our Lord in the memorial supper when he said, This is my blood of the New Covenant shed for many for the remission of sins. Drink ye all of it. The privilege of drinking with our Lord in this cup of sacrifice belongs to this age only. None will be left for the future.

But the blessing will not remain with those who drink of the cup—their restitution rights and privileges will be sacrificed and thus passed on for the benefit of mankind in general. The Apostle says that our Lord at his First Advent in his death became the "Surety" or guarantor of the New Covenant. But he did not seal the New Covenant nor put it into force in any sense of the word, because it was a Covenant with natural Israel and if it had been put into force it forthwith would have begun to bring blessings to Israel not to be theirs until after spiritual Israel should have been glorified in the First Resurrection. The "mystery" is, then, that philosophy in the divine program which no one could have surmised in advance, God has been quietly taking from the world a great Messiah, a great Prophet, a great King, a great Mediator between God and the world. Jesus is the Head and the faithful members are the Body. This is the great Mediator of the New Covenant, of which St. Peter was saying, "Moses truly said unto the fathers, A prophet shall the Lord your God raise up unto you of your brethren, like unto me (mediator of the Covenant); him shall ye hear in all things, whatsoever he shall say unto you. And it shall come to pass, that every soul, which will not hear that prophet, shall be destroyed from among the people" (Acts iii, 22, 23).

St. Paul styles Sarah, Abraham's proper wife and the mother of Isaac, the type of the faithful Israel and Jerusalem, the heavenly Covenant of which we are the children. "We, brethren, as Isaac was, are the children of the promise." "And if ye be Christ's then are ye Abraham's seed, and heirs according to the promise" (Galatians iii, 29). Thus the Church, Jesus the Head and his faithful, his members, constitute the great Deliverer which (is born or) comes out of spiritual Zion and which, under the New Covenant, will turn away ungodliness from Jacob—natural Israel. Notice how the Apostle expresses this saying, "For this is my Covenant unto them (the New Covenant to natural Israel) when I shall take away their sins."

We are not to understand that the mercy which they will receive under the New Covenant is purely the mercy of the Church and not the mercy of the Father and the Son. Evidently he wishes us to remember that all things are of the Father and all things are by the Son. God's mercy exercised through Christ and Christ's mercy through the Church will bless Israel under the provisions of their New (Law) Covenant.

Already indeed (by faith) has the Church been made rich by the Lord's blessing in proportion as the exceedingly great and precious promises have been accepted: and if it will still further make us rich through the "change" of the First Resurrection to "glory, honor and immortality, what may we not expect of its richness and blessing toward the Jew? Surely the blessing of the Lord will make Israel rich and honorable. Israel's blessing will be national as well as personal. Indeed, as soon as the Millenial Kingdom shall have been established, the blessing of the Lord will mean Divine favor in all the natural affairs of life to all those who are truly his—"to the Jew first." As a people they will be the first to be ready for the Divine guidance after the great time of trouble with which this present age will close. Christendom in general has little knowledge of coming restitution to all that which was lost in Eden. Christendom in general expects to go either to heaven or Purgatory or eternal torment, but many Jews know their Bible better than this; that the blessings promised are earthly ones—"Times of restitution of all things spoken by the mouth of all the holy prophets since the world began" (Acts iii, 20).

With the close of this age heavenly hopes will no longer be held forth to mankind, but, on the contrary, earthly hopes, restitution. Israel, therefore, will be the better prepared for the terms and conditions of the New Covenant. Besides, amongst them will appear Abraham, Isaac and Jacob and all the prophets, perfected in their resurrection-change, constituting the new earthly representatives of the Church, the heavenly Kingdom. Naturally they will be more ready to receive these than the remainder of mankind, because this is the promise which God made to them—"I will restore your judges as at the first and your lawgivers as at the beginning" (Isaiah i, 26).

Let us not forget that the blessing of the Lord which maketh rich is not to stop with Israel, but to be passed by them as a blessing to all nations, that whosoever will may attain to everlasting life through the merit of Christ's sacrifice and through the Church dwelling the New Covenant with Israel. Be it noted, however, that to obtain a share in the New Covenant blessings it will be necessary for the people of all nations to become Israelites and, by so doing, they will become children of Abraham. And this will be a fulfillment of the Divine promise, "I have constituted thee a father of many nations" (Romans iv, 17). Remember also how the Lord referred to Samaria and Sodom as examples of all the nations of the world, and declared to the Israelites, "I will give them unto thee for daughters, but not by thy old (Law) Covenant." Under the New Covenant Israel's daughters at the restitution time, the prophet declares, under their New Covenant, "When I shall bring again their captivity, the captivity of Sodom and her daughters, and the captivity of Samaria and her daughters, then will I bring again the captivity of thy captives in the midst of them." "When Sodom and her daughters shall return to their former estate, and Samaria and her daughters shall return to their former estate, then thou and thy daughters shall return to your former estate" (Ezekiel xvi, 53, 55).

As wow the Lord addeth no sorrow with his blessing, so it will be during the Millennium with the world. The assurance of the Word of God is that the close of the Millennium, when it will be "no more sighing, no more crying, no more dying," but that he will make all things new.

"Well, there's one thing about the weather—it's always a safe topic of conversation." "I thought it was when Lendhand spoke to me about it. I commenced to talk about it he said: "Yes, it's unsettled; and that reminds me of that account of yours."

He—I called to ask for your hand. She—Well, call again.

COLD BROUGHT ON KIDNEY DISEASE

BRANTFORD LADY SUFFERED TILL CURED BY DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

Mrs. A. H. Thomson had Heart Disease, Lumbago and Rheumatism, and Tells How She was Restored to Health.

Brantford, Ont. — (Special).—How colds, La Grippe and other minor ills settle on the Kidneys and develop Rheumatism, Heart Disease, Bright's Disease and other terribly dangerous ailments; and how any and all of them are cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills is fully shown in the case of Mrs. A. H. Thomson, whose home is at 48 Albion Street, this city.

Mrs. Thomson was, some years ago, taken with Bright's Kidney Disease, or Straining, which affected her Kidneys, and the result was Backache, Lumbago, Rheumatism and Heart Disease, which caused both her and her friends grave anxiety.

She had suffered some years when she heard of cures effected by Dodd's Kidney Pills, and bought a box, which she used with such splendid results that she continued to take them till she was cured. Since then she has used Dodd's Kidney Pills in her own family and recommended them widely to her friends, all of whom have warm words of praise for the standard Canadian Kidney remedy, Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Heart Disease, Rheumatism, Lumbago and Bright's Disease are all Kidney Diseases, or caused by diseased kidneys. You can't have any of them if you keep your Kidneys sound and your blood pure. Dodd's Kidney Pills make the Kidneys sound. Sound Kidneys strain all the impurities out of the blood.

HISTORIC LACROSSE.

Canadian National Game is Spreading All Over the World.

Lacrosse is probably the most exciting game known to the athletic world. Although only 45 years of age as a white man's pastime, it has nevertheless been played by the Indians for many years. In its old form many Indians took part, and with two curious looking sticks carried by each player the game moved fast over the red man's playground. For many years it was entirely unknown to the white man. The late Dr. W. George Beers, of Montreal, who is known as the father of lacrosse in Canada, took hold of the game some 40 years ago and reduced it to the middle stages of perfection, which stamped it as the premier of outdoor games. Clubs began to spring up in Montreal, Caughnawaga, Cornwall, St. Regis and Ottawa, and these places were pioneers in establishing the popularity of the game. Then the city of Toronto fell in line. In those days the Indian was the peer, if not the superior, of the white man. Upon the visit of the Prince of Wales, now King Edward, to Canada, a lacrosse game was one of the principal sporting events on the program in his honor, and he thoroughly enjoyed witnessing the contest between the redskins and the pale-faces, as the whites are called by the red men. Soon after this the game began to spread and become one of science, instead of one of speed and endurance, and to-day, when played by members of the big leagues, it is one of the fastest and most scientific games known to athletes. Passing and combination work has taken the place of endurance, and where there were only one association throughout all Canada, there are now seven with a club membership running up into the hundreds, and active members numbering into the tens of thousands. Not only has the game progressed in Canada, but also in the United States, where the athletic and city clubs are taking it up and employing Canadian coaches. England is taking hold of the game in a most remarkable manner. In Australia and New Zealand, Canada's national game is going ahead by leaps and bounds.

Strange as it may seem, while the white men have passed through the redskins at playing the game, no palleface has yet become proficient in the art of making a lacrosse stick. The Indian is naturally a born whittler, and as soon as he is able to handle a knife is found at work whittling a piece of hickory.

The making of a lacrosse stick is far more difficult than a look at it would indicate. From the time the trees are felled until the lacrosse is strung up ready for shipment requires generally about four months.

Only the butt, or first six feet, of a hickory tree is used in manufacturing the lacrosse sticks, the balance being too brittle to take the sharp curves. The wood is split up into strips 1.14 inches wide and shaped up with a draw-knife ready for the bending forms. They are then air dried for from two to three weeks or in the steam vapor generator. When the sap is considered to be all out of the wood it is placed in a steamer, and when soft, bent over a form and wired. The stick is allowed to stand for six weeks, so that it will keep its shape when the wires are removed. After the wires are removed, the sticks are taken to the gougers and a portion removed about the middle of the stick, so that the backs can be steamed and bent.

They are again allowed to season in this manner for some weeks. The stick is then rounded about the handle sufficiently to allow it to be doulled. When doulled they are passed along to be back-shaped, after which the inside is taken out by a draw-knife and the stick is passed along to the men who whittle the most important part of the lacrosse, which is at the different bends. This is really where the fine points of lacrosse-making come in. At this particular part there are many different curves and thicknesses and a good whittler must be whittled off here and there to get them to the proper proportion and weight. Only men of long experience are employed at this particular work. When this portion of the stick is completed it is heated and bent up at the crook and passed on to a boring machine, where the holes are bored to receive the strings. The stick is then sandpapered and a coat of filling is applied, and the stringing takes place. This latter part of the work is done by both squaws and Indians, the former being equally as expert at this branch as the latter. The string of the higher grade lacrosse sticks are generally clock cord or catgut, which is manufactured in England. The leaders or guard is made from rawhide. It often happens that every member of the family is employed in the manufacturing of lacrosse sticks.

Otter Skins Seized.

Paul Nathon, Ville Marie, Quebec, which is situated across Lake Temiskaming from North Temiskaming, had 26 otter and 429 muskrat skins in his rooms at the King Edward Hotel, Toronto, recently. He has been endeavoring to dispose of them to local dealers.

Provincial Inspector Greer got a clue to the presence of the skins. He met Nathon by appointment and the seizure followed.

The law is strict about the killing of otter, and the minimum fine is $20 for each skin.

The next morning Mr. Nation, with a lawyer, spent some time in the office of Edwin Tinsley, superintendent of games and fisheries. Nathon's claim is that the skins were obtained in Quebec and are consequently beyond the jurisdiction of Ontario courts.

A Rough Season.

Colin Fraser, veteran fur trader, arrived at Edmonton from Fort Chippewayan early in August with $18,000 worth of furs, mostly beaver and rats. He reports other furs very scarce. He says the journey in was the roughest in his experience. A number of the bridges were carried away by high water. He says the Indians would have starved had it not been an open season for beaver.

GOOD BLOOD AND GOOD HEALTH

Is the Result Obtained When Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Are Used

To have good health you must have good blood. It is only when the blood is bad that the health is poor. The blood is the life-giving fluid of the body—it is therefore an absolute necessity that it should be kept free from all impurities and poisons. To do this nothing can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. These Pills make new, rich blood with every dose; they drive out every impurity—every poison—and thus give good health. Concerning them Miss Bernadette Lapointe, of St. Jerome, Que., says:—"For several years my health was very bad—my system was completely run down. I had indigestion almost continually; my head was weak; I had headaches and backaches, and was sore all over. My blood was very poor and more than once I was in despair. I tried many supposed remedies but none of them helped me. One day a friend advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, telling me that she had found them good in a case similar to mine. I followed her advice and began taking the pills. They soon gave me some slight relief. Encouraged by this I continued their use for several months and they strengthened my whole system. I am to-day in excellent health and always keep Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in the house for if I feel a little out of sorts I take a box of Pills and am soon alright again."

Thousands of young girls throughout Canada suffer just as Miss Lapointe did. They are sickly all the time and are totally unable to take the enjoyment out of life that their healthy girl should. They need a tonic to build them up—to enable them to withstand the worries of household duties, and to give them strength to enjoy social life. Such a tonic is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. These Pills give them rich, red blood that will strengthen the nerves; banish headaches and backaches; cure indigestion, rheumatism, heart palpitation and relieve the many ills of girlhood and womanhood. Sold by all medicine dealers or direct by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

BETTER THAN SPANKING

Spanking does not cure children of bed-wetting. There is a constitutional cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. Summers, Box W. 77, Windsor, Ont., will send free to any mother her successful home treatment, with full instructions. Send no money but write her to-day if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child; the chances are it can't help it. This treatment is for cures adults and aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night.

In Demand

"That's a very popular man."

"Yes; he'll listen to the details of your summer trip without insisting on telling about his own."

Protect the child from the ravages of worms by using Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator. It is a standard remedy, and years of use have enhanced its reputation.

Two of a Kind

Mrs. Boggs—"I hate to have a man always complaining about some little thing. Now, my husband is continually harping on lace curtains."

Mrs. Woggs—"Yes, and my husband has been kicking on our front door every morning at 3 o'clock for the past twenty years."

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

NUMBER 23 THE PROOF

CHEAPNESS OF G.T.P.

Tariffs on New Line Will Be Below All Other Routes.

A remarkable claim on behalf of the Grand Trunk Pacific has just been made by the well-known engineer, Mr. Duncan MacPherson, who has been prominently connected with the location and construction of the National Transcontinental Railway. He maintains that not only will the Grand Trunk Pacific be able to beat any existing railway in Canada in the cheapness with which it will be able to haul freight, but that it will transport grain from Winnipeg to Quebec cheaper than the cheapest existing water route and far cheaper than the present combination of rail and water routes between the two points. He bases this assertion on the directness of the G.T.P. route and the superior character of its roadbed.

"The distance between Winnipeg and Quebec," he said, "via the Transcontinental will be 1,351 miles, as compared with 1,771 miles via the Canadian Pacific Railway to Fort William, and lake, canal and St. Lawrence river, which route involves five trans-shipments of the grain. On the Transcontinental a Mallet articulated compound engine will be capable of hauling a gross load of 4,290 tons, or a net paying load of 2,860 tons, equal to 85,333 bushels of wheat. Assuming the earnings of such trains to be $4.40 per mile—which will be exactly double the earnings of the G.P.R. freight trains for 1903—it will be found that even at this figure the cost per bushel over the 1,351 miles between Winnipeg and Quebec is 4.25 cents. The lowest known rate from Fort William to Montreal, via the lake, canal and St. Lawrence river, a distance of 1,216 miles was 4 cents per bushel in 1902. This 4 cents per bushel for 1,216 miles would be equivalent to 4 decimal 44 cents for 1,351 miles, so that at $4.40 a mile per train mile the engines could haul grain on the Transcontinental Railway, eastbound from Winnipeg to Quebec, for 0.19 cents per bushel cheaper than the cheapest existing water route could haul it the same distance, and 10.86 cents per bushel cheaper than the present combined rail and water routes.

"In fact," said Mr. MacPherson, "the G.T.P. will be able to haul the grain at about one-quarter the present rail and water rate."

Hamar Greenwood's Tour.

Hamar Greenwood, the member for York in the British Parliament, has been taken into camp by the Grand Trunk Pacific coast this year, because he is putting in night and day sittings in the House of Commons, with speaking tour on behalf of the budget as extras. There are only about twenty speakers in England, who can command and hold large audiences, and Mr. Greenwood is certainly one of these

He is now touring Cornwall and Devon on behalf of the budget league, in organization hands of Mr. Haldane, the War Minister at the head, which is re-invigorating the Government throughout the country. Mr. Greenwood started from Exmouth, the home of Sir Walter Raleigh, on the 10th, and toured by motor through two of the most beautiful and historic counties in the British Isles.

His plan of operation is to speak at a noon-day meeting in some quaint English town, and then to motor to a larger town, and there to one and sometimes two meetings in one night. In this way, he will speak at all the principal Cornish and Devon places in about ten days. His voice nevertires and his six-feet of good Canadian physique is equal to any work that runs up against him. He knows his subject, speaks lucidly and with a minimum of gesticulation, and never fails to ask for questions, and to deal with them pointedly and politely

He ought to be at least Under Secretary at the Colonial Office, for if he does not know more about the colonies with the exception of the Government of the home country as many so-called English statesmen, then he is not worthy of the Dominion of which he is always so keen a champion.

Grain Exports.

The Census and Statistics Monthly publishes records of exports of grain from Canada in the years, 1900, 1905 and 1903. Of wheat we exported in 1900, 56,846,640 bushels, in 1905 it was 905,537 bushels and in 1903, 45,879,058 bushels.

Of oats we exported for the first year 2,413,979 bushels; for the second year, 3,369,302 bushels and for the third year, 4,829,025 bushels.

Of barley we exported for the first year 2,413,979 bushels; for the second year, 932,738 bushels, and for the third year, 2,707,154 bushels.

Wheat is obviously the great staple of our grain exports, but in 1903 we exported about 10,000,000 bushels as flour, which makes our total for that year about 56,000 bushels, or only 18,000,000 bushels less than the total quantity of wheat inspected for sale in the Northwest provinces.

Profits in Potatoes.

Calgary business men announce that $12,000 is the profit they are securing from 160 acres which they this year leased in the vicinity of Strathmore in potatoes and in potatoes.

They say that the crop now being harvested will average at least 200 bushels to the acre. Two four-horse diggers and a gang are harvesting the crop at 16 acres per day.

The potatoes will be stored at Strathmore in three-room houses each 60 feet by 20 feet, the total storage being 25,000 bushels. One full train of at least thirty cars would be required to handle this crop if it were necessary to ship all at once.

Naval Evolution.

There may come a time when there will be an imperial fleet jointly owned by all the dominions and administered by a board in which these dominions will be represented. But this will not be the next stage in the development of imperial defence. The first step is the creation of local navies by each of the dominions.—Winnipeg Free Press.

College Sentiment

Dr. Blank, about twenty years a professor in the University of Virginia, was on the eve of a trip to Europe, to be absent two years. In pathetic and rather harrowing tones he made his farewell address to his class.

"Yes, I am sorry to part with you. This is more than distressing to me. Would that there was a window in my breast, my dear boys, that you might see the innermost recess of my heart."

A stripling in the rear, seized with a happy thought, shouted:

"Professor, would a pane in the stomach do?"—Lippincott's.

RED DEER'S POSSIBILITIES.

Future years will see dozens of manufactories located on the banks of the Red Deer river deriving power from our fast flowing river, a power which cannot be estimated at the present time.

All over Canada this idea of harnessing and utalizing the forces of nature is receiving the greatest attention.

No city or town in Alberta is better located than Red Deer for this purpose, and citizens must keep this idea in mind and try by every means to secure cheap power that could be offered to prospective manufacturers looking for a good location.

That Red Deer will be a railway centre is also apparent. The C.N.R. has run its survey lines east of town, coming in near the mouth of Waskasoo creek, and going south through Piper's creek to the level county beyond.

The C.P.R., from Langdon to Red Deer, will be completed next year, and there is no telling where the line may lead to. The surveyors out west have covered every available roadway to the Rocky Mountain House, and it looks as though the C. P. R. intended running a line west; if they do they will no doubt secure the Alberta Central Charter. Already great improvements have been made here over other towns on the C. & E. line. We have been made a divisional point, we have a round house, machine shop, coal chute, extensive siding, and other requisites of a progressive railway town, and every indication goes to show that there will be a forward movement next year.

GIVE US A FAIR DEAL.

In 1905 the Liberal leaders in the Provincial Assembly said it was by far the best plan to hand all our land and resources over to the Dominion as we were getting full compensation for them. In 1909 these same leaders are asking for the school lands or revenue derived from them, and there are some of the party like Mr. Telford asking for some of the remaining lands. As people begin to think they see the unfairness of the Dominion government depriving us of our lands and resources, and they, like the leaders, are asking for a fair deal for Alberta.

ALBERTA AND B. C. POLITICS.

The Provincial Legislature of British Columbia was dissolved on Wednesday last, and Premier McBride will appeal to the country on Nov. 25. The Liberal party are putting up a strong fight against the policy of the government for guaranteeing the bonds of the C.P.R. and hope to defeat the Conservative party on that issue. The Liberal government of Alberta had a policy at the late provincial election identical with the Conservative government of B.C. at the present time. The Liberal government of Alberta was strongly supported by the people on their railway policy at that time, the Conservative party not opposing it. The Conservative party in B. C. will be sustained when they go to the polls on that policy as the Liberals were sustained in Alberta. But after the lesson handed out to B.C. Liberals in March last by Alberta they must be in dire straits for a policy. Even the Federal government on this policy has swept the west the last two elections, and the Conservative government of British Columbia will be returned by an overwhelming majority on their railway policy Nov. 25th.

The Calgary Albertan grows sarcastic at the expense of Conservatives because Mr. Douglas, the Liberal candidate in Strathcona, was allowed his election without opposition, and asks what issue could be brought before the people at the present time that would induce them to vote against the Liberal candidate. Well, that unfair trick the Liberals have of bringing on an election at the shortest possible notice, thereby depriving a Conservative of the opportunity of going to the end of the big constituency and back before election day, thereby depriving electors of their just rights, is one little item that might be mentioned.

Hard on Lacombe Hotels.

WHAT IS THE DRAIN FOR?

The Lacombe Globe, in its report of the council meeting of that town, says:

"There having been many complaints from citizens about the stench arising from the trap of town drain, the committee appointed to ferret out the cause and propose a means to abate the nuisance reported as follows:

'Owing to the complaints received regarding the odor from the drain, your committee has had an inspection made of all premises connected with it, and are of the opinion that the odor is caused from the sewage from Mr. Inskip's tank. We would therefore recommend that Mr. Inskip be at once notified to disconnect his tank and kitchen sink from the drain. We also recommend that the application of the Victoria Hotel to connect with the drain be not granted.'

There was considerable discussion on this report. It was the opinion of a number of the councillors that the tank used at the Adelphi was no more a septic tank than it was a crematory. The health of the town was in danger, and while the adoption of the report might work a hardship on Mr. Inskip, the safety of the public was of more consequence. If the Adelphi was allowed connection the Victoria should have the same privilage. The report was adopted and Mr. Inskip will be notified to cut off drain connections."

A Boon to Mothers.

When Children are Injured.

Children are always sustaining cuts, bruises, burns, etc., and not infrequently contract ringworm, scalp diseases, and similar skin troubles at school. Mothers will find Zam-Buk without equal for all these accidents and diseases.

Mrs. Thomas, Allen, 150, Water Street, St. Mary's, Ont., says:—"My daughter Mildred, 4 years old, was severely burned by falling on a hot flat iron. She was burned on the heel, instep, and on the thigh very badly. I at once applied some Zam-Buk, which eased the pain, and in the course of a few day the wound was thoroughly healed."

Mrs. George Aldridge, 12, Louise Street, Stratford, says:—"While playing barefooted about the yard my son Bertram, six years old, stepped on a broken glass bottle, which cut very deeply into his big toe. The cut was so deep that I sent for a doctor and had the foot properly dressed, the doctor leaving a lotion to be applied daily. Under this treatment, however, the wound seemed to get no better, but on the contrary inflammation set in. A kindly neighbor then recommended Zam-Buk. We obtained a supply, and after a few applications the child seemed to rest better, and the pain was very much reduced. In a few days, under the Zam-Buk treatment, the wound assumed a better appearance, and from that time healing was very rapid. Inflammation and soreness was finally completely banished, and in ten days from the first application of Zam-Buk, we took the bandages from the foot. I feel sure that but for Zam-Buk the child would have had a very bad time, and might have had to sacrifice the toe."

Not only for cuts, burns, bruises, etc., is Zam-Buk effective, but also for serious skin diseases such as eczema, ringworm, ulcers, etc. It also cures poisoned sores, chronic wounds, bad leg, piles, festering sores, chapped hands, cold sores, frost-bite, and all skin injuries and diseases. Druggists and stores everywhere sell at 50c. a box, or post free for price from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto; 3 boxes $1.25. You are warned against harmful imitations sometimes represented to be "just as good."

HALL'S CASH STORE.

The public blows our horn. Not what a person says himself, but what the public say of him; that's reputation. The same is true about stores. Ask anybody you meet, if you happen to be a stranger: "Where's the best and cheapest place to buy Dry Goods?" And nine times out of ten you'll get the answer: "Hall's Cash Store."

We don't profess to have the biggest stock in town, but we do guarantee to sell goods at a less price than you'll get them elsewhere in town. A great deal better for a good deal less is what people look for in our store.

We are anxious for comparisons. They are the keys that unlock the facts.

We want you to read every word of this ad. carefully. Compare our prices with those given by other houses, and we feel assured you'll give us your trade in the future.

JANE CABLE

CHAPTER XXI.

DAVID CABLE lost no time in hurrying away from Chicago with his wife and Jane. They were whisked westward in his private car on the second day after the Bansemer exposure. Broken spirited, Jane acquiesced in all their plans. She seemed as one in a stupor, comprehending yet unresponsive to the pain that enveloped her.

"I can't see any one that I know here," she said listlessly. "Oh, the thought of what they are saying!"

They did not tell her that Graydon had enlisted as a private soldier in the United States army. Jane only knew that she loved him and that the bar sinister existed.

Cable's devotion to her was beautiful. He would not have been more tender had she been his own daughter instead of his wife's imposition.

Jane was ill in Pasadena for many weeks. Her depressed condition made her recovery doubtful. It was plain to two persons, at least, that she did not care whether she lived or died. The physicians were puzzled, but no explanation was offered by the Cables. It was not until certain Chicago sojourners generously spread the news that the cause of her breakdown became apparent to the good doctors. Before many days the girl who sat wan and distrait upon the flower shaded piazza was an object of curiosity to fashionable Pasadena. As soon as she was strong enough to endure the trip the hunted trio forsook Pasadena and fled northward.

San Francisco afforded relief in privacy. Jane's spirits began to revive. There had not been nor was there ever to be any mention of that terrible night and its revelations. What she may have felt and suffered in secret could only be conjectured by those who loved her. Bansemer's name was never uttered. His fate remained unknown to her. The faraway, unhappy look in her eyes proved to them that Graydon was never out of her thoughts.

David Cable was in Chicago when Mrs. Cable received word from her sister, once Kate Coleman, that she soon would reach San Francisco with her husband, bound for the Philippines. Kate was the wife of a West Pointer who had achieved the rank of colonel in the volunteers by virtue of political necessity. His regiment had been ordered to the islands, and she was accompanying him with their daughter, a girl of sixteen.

Colonel Harbin had seen pleasant service at the eastern posts, where his wife had attained a certain kind of social distinction in the army fast set. She was not especially enamored of the prospect ahead of her in the Philippines. But the new colonel was a strict disciplinarian on and off the field. He expected to be a brigadier general if fortune and favoritism supported him long enough. Mrs. Harbin could never be anything more than a private in the ranks, so far as his estimation of distinction was concerned. His daughter, Ethel, had, by means of no uncertain favoritism, advanced a few points ahead of her mother and might have ranked as sergeant in the family corps.

Mrs. Harbin played cards, drank highballs, flirted with the younger officers, got talked about with pleasing emphasis and was as happy as any subordinate could be. They had not even thought of such a thing as divorce, and the whole army wondered and expressed disgust. The army's appetite for scandal is surpassed only by its bravery in war. It is even hinted that the latter is welcomed as a loophole for the former. War brings peace.

The arrival of the Harbins and a staff of gay young cadets fresh from the banks of the Hudson put new life into the recluses. The regiment was to remain at the Presidio for several weeks before sailing. One of the lieutenants was a Chicago boy and an acquaintance of Graydon Bansemer. It was from him that Jane learned that her sweetheart was a soldier in the service, doubtless now in Luzon.

A week before the sailing of Colonel Harbin's transport Jane suddenly announced that she had but one desire on earth, and that was to go to Manila with her aunt. She did not present her plea with the usual timidity that she wanted to be of service to her country. She was not asking to go out as a heroine of the ordinary type. Instead she simply announced that she wanted to go as a temporary member of Colonel Harbin's family, to endure their hardships and to enjoy their enthusiasms. Mrs. Cable recognized the true motive, however.

Her pleadings were in vain. The Harbins had lucklessly urged Jane to join them. Telegrams flew back and forth across the continent, and David Cable came on to present his feeble objections.

When the great transport sailed away, Jane Cable was one of her passengers, the ward of the regiment.

"It's just for a little while, dad," she said wistfully at the dock; "a few months. I'll think of you every minute I'm away."

The blood of the man in the service was calling to her. The ocean was between them. The longing to be near him, to tread the same soil, had conquered in the eternal battle of love. After all, no matter how the end was attained, she was a creature of life, brought into the world to love and to be loved. She put the past behind her and began to build a new future—a future in which the adoration of Graydon Bansemer was the foundation stone. In that makes all human averages was at the work of reconstruction; youth was the builder. The months of destruction had not left a hopeless ruin as the heritage of dead impulses.

The world grew brighter as the ship forged westward. Each day sent warmer blood into her veins and a deeper light into her eyes. The new life was not inspired by the longing to be his wife, but to see him again and to comfort him. She would be no man's wife.

At last one hot, soft morning in early July the great transport slipped past Corregidor and turned its nose across Manila bay, past Cavite, toward the anchorage which ended the long voyage. The city of Manila lay stretched out before them—Manila, the new American capital.

The troops were marched off to quarters, and the Harbins, with Jane Cable, repaired at once to the Oriental, where they were to live prior to taking a house in Ermita or San Miguel. The campaign was not being pushed vigorously at this time. It was the rainy season. Desultory fighting was going on between the troops and the insurgents. There were numerous scouting and exploring expeditions into the enemy's country.

A week elapsed before Jane could find the opportunity to make inquiries concerning the whereabouts of Graydon Bansemer. Her thoughts had been of nothing else; her eagerness had been tempered by the diffidence of the overzealous. She and pretty Ethel Harbin had made life endurable for the gay young officers who came over on the ship. The pretty wives of certain captains and lieutenants had small scope for their blandishments at close range. Flirtations were hard to manage in space so small. The two girls were therefore in a state of siege most of the time. The abject following fell away perceptibly when the broader field of action on shore gave their married sisters a chance to be never with some degree of security. A faithful few remained in train, however. Ethel Harbin, like the ingenue in the play, had each finger clumsily but tightly wrapped with a breathing uniform of blue. It must be admitted in shame, however, that she changed the bandages often and without conscience or ceremony.

Jane's admirers were in love with her. She was not the sort to inspire idle fancies. In any event, it looked a long time to these dogs before they could get back to the States, and she was worth while.

Perhaps her most devoted admirer was Lieutenant Bray. Good looking and coming from an excellent southern family, he was a great favorite with all. Jane liked him better than any of the rest. She would have liked him still better had he been able to resist a tendency to boast of the stock from which he had sprung. The knowledge of her disadvantages in life, the contrast between their respective positions, all tended to emphasize the irony of fate, and she often found herself wondering how this sprig of true aristocracy would conduct himself if he discovered that, after all, she was only a foundling.

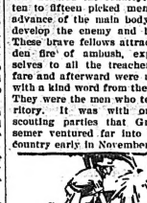
It was Lieutenant Bray who made inquiries at general headquarters and found, after considerable trouble, that the Graydon Bansemer's company was in the north, subject to the requirements of Young, chief of scouts.

Irksome were the lazy summer months for Jane. She tired of the attentions of men; she sickened with longing and anxiety. Day after day she prayed that the troops in the north might be relieved. She watched for the order that would call for their return from the wet lands above. Sickness was prevalent among the fighting corps; the wet season had undermined the health of many. Constant news came down to Manila of the minor engagements, and she looked at every report for news of Graydon. Colonel Harbin occasionally had private advices from the north. She heard of Graydon's bravery more than once and glowed with pride. Down in her tired, anxious heart she was wondering if it were possible for her to go to the front in any capacity.

At last with October came the waning of the rainy season. November brought active fighting. A general movement of the troops was directed against Aguinaldo. In his prime as a leader he controlled the north, and his capture was imperative. Lawton and Young began operations on the right, MacArthur on the center, with Wheaton pushing forward on the extreme left. The insurgents fell back from Tarlac. There were many big fights at San Jacinto and other places now famous in history.

The Red Cross society held forth at Malolos, reaching gradually into the country north. Sick and wounded men came into the hospitals daily and in larger numbers than one would have supposed. The villages, or barrios, all along the line of advance saw their convents turned into hospitals. As fast as possible the nurses were hurried up to them. Men and women in this noble service did heroic, faithful work both for the white and the brown men who went down. From the field hospitals the men were taken to the convents and treated until they were able to be moved to Manila.

Further north fled Aguinaldo and the Filipinos. Wheaton was ordered to cut off his retreat; Young was killed; Cunningham took charge of the scouts who scoured the country. Parties of ten to fifteen picked men fell out in advance of the main body, seeking to develop the enemy and his defenses. These brave fellows attracted the hidden fire of ambush, exposed themselves to all the treacheries of warfare and afterward were mustered out with a kind word from the department. They were the men who tested the territory. It was with one of these scouting parties that Graydon Bansemer ventured far into the enemy's country early in November.



CHAPTER XXII.

GREGORIO DEL PILAR, the picturesque Filipino leader, about whom so much has been written in praise by the war correspondents, was leading his men back into the danger fields, inviting the American pursuers into every trap which his crafty brain could devise.

Captain Groce, with a company of infantry, was following him closely and doggedly into the fastnesses far to the north. Village after village was devastated by the white troops, always a few hours after the wily Pilar had performed some bewildering trick of deceptive sleeves at the Americans and misdirected them with impunity. In eight cases out of ten the amigo wore arms underneath his garment of friendship and slew in the dark whenever opportunity arose. Graydon Bansemer was one of this doughty, eager company which blazed the way into the hills. Close behind came the bigger and stronger forces, with guns and horse, and the hospital corps. It was the hunt of death for Aguinaldo and Pilar.

Shortly after daybreak one morning a slim, black figure crept out from among the trees and gave the countersign to the challenging sentry who was soon on his way to the captain's headquarters bearing news of importance. The brown skinned scout had traveled all night over a hazardous route, and he was more than welcome. He brought news that Pilar's men were off to the east and the north, well intrenched and prepared to fall upon the Americans when they advanced blindly into the trap laid for them. The newspaper men pricked up their ears and at once looked to a box of carrier pigeons which formed a most important part of their pilgrimage. A fight was at hand, doubtless an important meeting of the clashing forces. The whole army was waiting for intelligence of Pilar—waiting with little less anxiety than that which attached itself to the pursuit of Aguinaldo.

Captain Groce summoned Sergeant Connell with a picked squad to reconnoiter. They scurried off in advance of the company, with instructions to locate the elusive enemy and open up the secret of his position. Supposedly Pilar was ten miles away before the rocky foothills which guarded the pass through the mountains. As usual, Bansemer was one of the scouts. He snatched his rations with the others and went forth eagerly to court the danger and excitement that was promised. For days they had had no fighting worthy the name. Amigos everywhere, villages peopled only by women and children, treacherous peacefulness on every side. This had been their encounter—an occasional rifle shot from the rice fields, a crackle of guns far ahead, a prisoner or two who had not been quick enough in transforming himself from combatant to friend, that was all. Now there seemed to be real fighting ahead.

Pilar was known to have many men—good soldiers all of them. The native scout gave close and accurate directions as to his position. It remained for Connell's men to draw him out if possible. Captain Groce and the remainder of his eager company did not march until long after the scouts were on their precarious way.

Two hours after the party of eleven left the village a Mauser bullet from a clump of trees far to the right cut through the hat of one of the scouts who was some distance in advance of his fellows. As he saw the scout stoop to pick up his hat Rogers turned to the man nearest him and remarked:

"They'll get him sure as shootin' some day if he hikes along in that fool way."

It was no new experience for the scouts to find the quarry gone when they reached the place where they expected to find him. Pilar's own scouts had found that the ambuscade was destined to fall of its purpose, and the wily leader drew back into the more accessible country. The scouting party did not come in sight of the little brown soldiers. Before noon they were far up in the hills, everywhere met by the physical assurance that the enemy was not far ahead of them. Behind them came Captain Groce and his men and the two correspondents.

Amigos along the mountain road gave information that was not worth having. A deserted village showed signs of the passage, and finally there was proof ahead that Pilar had stopped to give battle. He had reached his vantage ground. Connell and his men drew back and waited. Nightfall came and with it the spiteful crack of the Mauser rifle. A brawny trooper toppled over with a great hole in his head. Pilar's pickets could see like cats in the night. The native scout reported that the big village of Concepcion was not far ahead; Pilar's men were making their stand before this rather important stronghold.

"We'll get a scrap that is a scrap, boys," said Connell exultingly. These fellows are going to put up a fight at last. They're like bees up yonder. We've got to fall back on the company. If we don't, they'll chew us up before the little captain can get to us."

Too well did the men know the bellicose temperament of the big Irishman to think of grumbling at such a command, yet it was with a certain reluctance which invariably accompanies a backward step that the men retired to meet the advancing company.

Young Bansemer in his khaki uniform was not the immaculate, debonaire man of the drawing room. Service, though short, had been hard and grueling. His face was even handsomer with its rugged lines and set features. He was thinner and browner; his eyes were clearer and a darker gray; his hair seemed thicker and fairer than before; his figure more erect and sinewy. The wistful look in his eyes seemed to betray hunger for action; his ever ready eagerness to be on the move told of his strength and of his weakness. He had the lean, active bearing of the panther and the restless daring of that lithe animal.

No man in the company had stood fire as valiantly as he. He courted the whiz of the bullet, scoffed at the cigars of the march and instinctively was a good shot with the rifle. He bore no grudge against the department at home; he had no grievance.

The officers recognized in him a man of parts, a man of station far above the position which he had chosen in the army. He was a source of mystery to the men of his own rank in the line—the plowboys, the teamsters, the roustabouts and the ne'er-do-wells who had gone into the army from choice or discretion. At first they had called him the "dude" and had laughed at his white hands and clean jaws. His indifference to their taunts annoyed them. One day he knocked down the biggest bully of the lot and walked away without even waiting to see whether he would arise after the blow. He simply glared at the next man who chaffed. He was enough. The company held him in a new respect that forbade the reporting of the incident to the officer of the day.

Every night before he lay down to sleep, in the fair field or the barrios, he took from his pocket a leather case and gazed at the small portrait it sheltered. No one had been permitted to see him in his devotions, for that was what he called these sacred moments. His face, full of fierce energy all day long, softened as his eyes devoured the dainty miniature.

"Halt! Who goes there?"

A shot rang out in the stillness of the night. It was answered at once by another closer in. More shots followed, gradually increasing to a fusillade as the scouts and pickets came running back. Men sprang up from the ground, but even as they did so another volley reached them, and three men dropped with a groan and lay still. The alarm sounded clear from the bugle and echoed back from the surrounding hills. A sharp command came from the throat of the sergeant. The company seized the stacked rifles. Captain Groce gave another order. The formation to repel attack was made in an incredibly short space of time. There was no disorder, no confusion. The little officer was as cool as if on dress parade.

"Steady, men! Wait until they're nearer!"

They had not long to wait. From all sides a horde of shouting, firing men were rushing on the little square.

"Here they are! Now, then, boys, fire!"

Volley after volley rang out. The foremost of the enemy fell at their feet. Hand to hand was the fighting. The bayonets lunged with deadly effect, but seemed powerless to thrust the mass back on itself. One shot, backed, stabbed and clubbed each other. It was a whirl of uplifting and descending rifles and bolos.

Fierce oaths vied with the shrieks of the wounded for supremacy. The groans of men who slaughter, the gasps of the victims when the steel went home, were heard on all sides. At times the soldiers could not see on account of the sweat and blood pouring from their faces. The very air was foul from the steam from the living and the dead. They could not breathe A sort of vertigo overpowered them, and they only kept their feet by grappling with the enemy.

To Bansemer it seemed that all his life he had been doing nothing but warding off and delivering blows. Fighting side by side with Rogers, he saw, with horror, that the soldier's head had been torn from his hands and that he had no weapon to defend himself, but before he could see just how it happened this individual combat had altered its aspect. Rogers had grabbed the Filipino's gun and was doing the clubbing. With renewed zest Bansemer finished with the bayonet his own assailant and saw the man fall on top of poor Adams and Relander.

The transition from winter's cold to summer's heat frequently puts a strain upon the system that produces internal complications, always painful and often serious. A common form of disorder is dysentery, to which many are prone in the spring and summer. The very best medicine to use in subduing this painful ailment is Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial. It is a standard remedy, sold everywhere.

Why He Sold Him

The village postmaster doubted that the animal offered for sale was really "a valuable watchdog," and eyed rather dubiously the nondescript canine.

"'Deed he am, boss," answered Rastus.

"But if he was as good a watchdog as you make out, how is it you want to sell him at all?"

"Yo' see, boss, it am dis way: In dese hard times, I ain't done got nuthin' to watch."

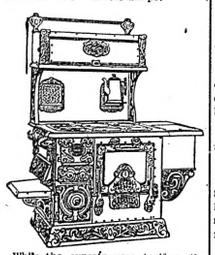
The Sask-Alta

"SASK-ALTA" was born in London, Ontario, September, 1907; For over one year previous to this date, the makers had planned the manufacture, thought over the features, studied the range's adaptibilities to the West, then the biggest foundry in the British Empire got to turning the idea into concrete shape.



While the experts were testing the various parts of the range, a naming contest was commenced. The result was twenty thousand names were sent in. Then the work of making a choice began. "Sask-Alta," (a contraction of Saskatchewan and Alberta) appealed to the judges, because as the new range was designed especially for the Western homesteads, and had to surpass everything previously accomplished in steel range construction, features and appearance they thought it but fitting that two great provinces should be halved up, so to speak, that the "just-right" name be procured.

Confident in your willingness and readiness to appreciate "Sask-Alta" we present it to you—in all its beauty, with all itI efficiency.

Feed Boilers

Those who have used them most are most enthusiastic in their praise, as they pay for themselves several times each season. We have two varieties this year.

THE RIVERSIDE OAK

Is perhaps the only stove that comes into Alberta in straight carloads. We do not think there is a better stove made for school houses, churches or public buildings, and burns either wood or coal, but is much better adapted for the latter, and will burn the ordinary lignite such as we have here as well as the best hard coal. It is on an improved principle of direct draft heaters, and combines an easily applied system of ventilating and heating. The ventiduct flue removes the cold air from the floor, passes it through the fire chamber, intensely heating and purifying it, after which it is distributed through open swing cover into the room. The fire pot is unusually heavy and durable. The body is made of heavy polished cold rolled steel. It is ornamental in appearance and will thoroughly satisfy purchaser in volume of heat produced.

THE CASTEEL COOK STOVE

Is illustrated here. We were anxious to get a medium priced substantial stove that we could offer our customers, and in the one presented herewith, we are confident we have something really up-to-date. It has a steel body, steel oven, with cast iron outside dress, and a large pouch feed for soft coal, while the revolving duplex grate will permit of burning wood or coal of any kind. Aluminized inside, anti-rust, and cannot be destroyed by heat.

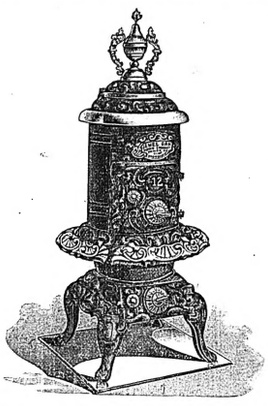
Plain, without reservoir,	25.00
Extended, with reservoir,	31.00

HEATERS

THE OAK TREASURE and STAR GEM OAKS

Herewith illustrated are always very popular and are big heaters at a moderate price. The bodies are made of one piece heavy superior cold rolled steel and flanged top and bottom. In mounting, the body is forced over a flange on top of fire pot into cement filled cup joint.



Body flange is then turned, and over this deflector ring is bolted, making an absolutely airtight joint, which cannot open or leak.

GRAND JEWEL

Is very much similar to the Oak Treasure and Star Gem, with the addition of a very handsome finish, which these stoves do not equal, and provision is also made for mica in the front. This stove is perhaps the most handsome on our floor, and has for years been one of our greatest sellers.

STRATHCONA HOT BLASTS

We were unable to get a cut of this stove in time for this issue, but the stove is one we have handled with the most satisfactory results for the past eight years. The body is made of Heavy Russian zron, ornamental dome top, lap jointed to body. Nickle plated swing cover, ring, rail base trimmings, etc. Hot blast draft, which is the draft of the stove, and burns all the gas in the coal. This draft in connection with the absolute airtight construction discharges a blast of fresh air over the surface of the coal, saves waste and gives a steady controllable heat Feed door is absolutely smoke proof. Above fire pot inside is a steel lining which prevents action of fire on the body. Extra large ash pan. Grate can be shaken without opening ash pit door. Clean out draft door lifts up, and is held by patent malleable attachment.

AIR TIGHTS

We have a line of these cuts for which we have no illustration to offer but we may say we have sold several hundred in the district West of us in the last few years. To describe them briefly we say that they are made with Russian iron bodies, anti-rust coated cast iron main top, swing top feed opening. Nickle plated rail around bottom, heavy corrugated steel linings, double seamed steel bottoms, screw register, Alaska turn key and handle, check draft on front of main top.

JUMBO HEATERS

Are a very strongly made cast stove with great heating capacity. They are perfectly plain in appearance, and represent the maximum heating ability at the minimum expense, and are only suitable for burning coal.

Next Sunday the pastor will continue in the morning the series on "The Messages to the Churches", and in the evening will preach upon "Personality."

Capt. Mackie, District Staff Adjutant for Alberta, was in Red Deer Friday last inspecting the proposed rifle range. He went over the ground with Lieut H. L. Gaetz and he recommends the government procuring the site selected, which will make a very satisfactory range. The place selected is on the property of J. J. Gaetz north-east of town, about three-fourths of a mile north of the cemetery.

HALF THE TOIL

of household work is taken away when Sunlight Soap is brought into the home. For thoroughly cleansing floors, metal-work, walls and woodwork, Sunlight is the most economical both in time and money.

The new hose wagon was turned out of H. G. Stone's shop complete yesterday. It is a credit to the designer, the builders and the painter. It fills a long felt want, adds greatly to the fire equipment, in fact is a peach. It has been christened 'Chief Meere's Baby.'

The anniversary services of the Willowdale Presbyterian church will be held on Oct. 31st when the Rev. W. G. Brown, of Red Deer, will preach at 3 p. m. On Monday supper will be served in the church from 6 to 8 o'clock and will be followed by a good programme.

"Facing the Music" to-morrow night is already an assured success. It is for a good purpose and deserves it. Pack the house to the doors. Show the gentlemen who are doing all this work for nothing you appreciate their best efforts. Give the show a boost.

George Parker, of Horn Hill, left a large pumpkin at the News office last week, grown in the open. It is the finest specimen we have ever seen in Alberta. It is surprising how many people want a piece of pie "like mother used to make" since they saw that pumpkin. Horn Hill is now classed in the banana belt sure.

Cap Lost.

A ladies' brown riding cap and two hat pins, between Lord's store and the railway track, two miles out, on Saturday last. Finder kindly leave at News Office. 1w.

Lost.

Two horses—one a grey mare weighing about 900 lbs., branded heart on left cheek; the other is a grey gelding (nearly white) branded with perpendicular bar and half circle underneath on shoulder (the brand is almost invisible); weight about 1,050 lbs. Both have their tails docked and manes completely cut off.—A reward will be paid for information leading to their recovery. M. A. LEROUGE,
Corner Alexandra St. Box 205.

AN INTOLERABLE NUISANCE

Many persons who require glasses for distance and an additional correction for near objects put up with the intolerable nuisance of keeping track of two pairs of glasses, because they do not know that there are two vision lenses, or else because they have been prejudiced against glasses of this kind by poorly made glasses improperly adjusted.

Our two vision lenses are all one piece, the very acme of scientific achievement, and when properly fitted and adjusted are not only a thing of beauty but a joy forever. Let me show them to you.
